NCI-FUNDED POST-DOCTORAL TRAINING IN CANCER PREVENTION AND CONTROL HEALTH DISPARITIES

National Cancer Institute-funded post-doctoral research positions available in Tucson, AZ:

- One to two year traineeship integrating behavioral to biological science research
- Preparation for an independent cancer disparities academic research career
- Multi-disciplinary mentored environment with established investigators

Position Details:

- Engage in a research project
- Develop research proposals
- Produce two to three publications per year
- Stipend and health benefits included

Qualifications:

- U.S. Citizen or permanent resident
- Doctoral degree in public health, medicine, epidemiology, basic science, community psychology, sociology, or related health sciences
- Individuals from underrepresented & underserved backgrounds encouraged to apply

To apply, contact the program at UACC-CPCtraining@uacc.arizona.edu. Applications will include:

- Curriculum vitae
- Research concept
- Personal statement
- Unofficial transcripts
- Three references

Contact Adrienne Lent, DrPH, MBA, MPH for more information:
Telephone: 520-626-4894 or e-mail: UACC-CPCtraining@uacc.arizona.edu
Website: cancercenter.arizona.edu/outreach-and-education/education-training/postdocs-fellows/cancer-prevention-and-control